

Registration form for COMPUTE course
“Efficient programming of modern HPC architectures”

The course “Efficient programming of modern HPC architectures” will be given in the first study period of the spring term 2017. Students of all backgrounds and all levels of programming experience are invited to register for the course. Participation in the course requires an operational laptop. More details about the course can be found at the COMPUTE website <http://cbbp.thep.lu.se/Compute/Courses.php>.

Spaces in the course are limited, so please register as soon as possible to increase your chances of being admitted. Please return this form by 19 December 2016. You must be enrolled in the COMPUTE research school to register for the course.
